Now is the perfect time to attend an FIS™ Cash Management University class. When you educate yourself and your employees about the leading industry tactics for selling cash management services, you have the opportunity to:

- Better understand what today's customers and prospects are looking for from their cash management provider
- Become a strategic cash management advisor for your customers
- Expand this profitable line of business at your bank
- Build a treasury network of colleagues from other institutions
- And much more!

Who should attend these sessions?

Branch managers, loan officers, operations managers and bank employees who regularly work with business customers.
